ON OLYMPICS The Lull After a Storm

The 2012 Summer Olympics in London were over on August 12 after 16 days of competition. It is now like the lull after a storm. I am sure that many of you watched, and were excited by and enjoyed the games on TV. We talked about how many medals Canada won; how many Canadian athletes stood on the podium; who won gold, silver or bronze.

Athletes from 204 countries competed. I don't think there is anything wrong in the competition of skills. Winning and losing are central in the world of competition. There were tears and laughter, disappointment and excitement. It is the epitome of an ordinary life.

We humans tend to divide things into two. For example, we think of sports in terms of victory and defeat, winner and loser. Then we become attached to one; obviously, victory and winning. We want victory. We want to be a winner. We want more gold medals. I heard one radio commentator on the Olympics saying that: "our athletes should bring as many medals as possible back to Canada. We have supported them and spent a lot of money for them. This is competition. It is not enough just to take part in the games."

I personally do not necessarily agree with the comment. We sent the athletes to the London Olympics as our representatives, representatives of Canada. They worked hard to improve their skills for the Olympics and put all their might, all their efforts in the competition. We should be grateful for that. We watched TV and enjoyed the moment of their accomplishments, beauty, strength and skill. This is so not only of Canadian athletes but also of others. I don't think we should become too attached to the idea of winning and losing, winner and loser. Of course, we are happy when Canadian athletes stand proudly on the podium. We are happy and excited to listen to the Canadian anthem. But we should not be caught up in the dualistic idea of winner and loser, victory and defeat. When athletes and people around become too much attached to winning and victory, some of them start to do whatever they can do to win, which we witnessed. They get the wrong idea of "means to the end" and engage in dirty tricks. I think we should keep in mind that, after all, there is no winner without a loser. I think we Buddhists should know that we are not result-seekers but consider motivation and intention as fundamental.

Just suppose that a person who is competing is our child, say our son. Of course, we want him to win; but, even in loss, we totally accept him as he is. Actually, it does not matter to the parents, in the truest sense, whether he wins or loses. Parents want him to do his best with no injuries and no pressure and return home safely with a smile. The parents welcome him as he is. We would be better to see and think of all athletes as our own children or brothers and sisters.

Shinran Shonin (1173-1263) wrote: All Buddhas (Enlightened Beings) of the ten quarters see and think of the beings as their only child.

Parents want children to be good, but if there is a bad child their attention focus on that particular child with care and deep concern. I think this is parental love toward their children. In true love, there is no discrimination. Their love is beyond good and bad, beyond boundaries we create. This is the heart of all Buddhas. For them there is no good and bad, winner and loser, victory and defeat. The Buddha accepts them as they are. There is no ego-mind in the Buddha: It is the spirit of oneness and true compassion. In the midst of the world of duality we should listen to and appreciate this spirit not only in the time of Olympics but also in our everyday lives of ups and downs.

この夏は、イギリスで開催されたオリンピックで世界中が興奮の渦に巻き込まれた感がありました。その期間中、三泊四日でありましたが。私は、ロスアンゼルスのリトル東京で開催されたアメリカ教団開教使布教研修会に出席してきました。初めてリトル東京を訪れたのは、四十五年前のことで、開教使になる前でした。無銭旅行中で、リトル東京のレストラン"味の一番"で二ヶ月間、皿洗いをしていました。その後、開教使になって二、三度訪れましたが、訪れる度に、当時の面影はどんどん消えていきました。西本願寺別院も、今は、昔の場所から徒歩で数分の所に、新しく威風堂々と建立されました。時は移り、建物は変わりました。しかし、本堂に掲げられている「顕示大道」の額は昔と同じでした。「大道を顕示する」とは、宗祖親鸞聖人が、私たちに示して下さった「南無阿弥陀仏の大道」のことです。南無阿弥陀仏という「仏様の呼び声」は、老若、男女、善悪、貴賤を問わない道、全ての生きとし生ける者が等しく仏道を歩み救われていく、広く、温かい、大きな道である、ということでしょう。限りある世の中で、死におびえ、生にまどえる私たちを、いつでも、どこでも包み込んで下さる、「大悲の働き」ということです。決して滅びることのない仏様の呼び声に、私たちは、日々新たに遇わせていただくのです。そこに本当のよろこびと、安らぎが与えられるのではないのでしょうか。南無阿弥陀仏の呼び声に、私たちの心をかたむけていきましょう。合掌 いずみ

BTSA NOTES

The cool August evenings remind us that autumn is near and that means an uptick of temple activities after a relatively lazy summer. The first major undertaking is the noodle mein-making session on Sept. 22, under the direction of Pat Sassa and Keiko Gordon.

At least 10 persons from each toban are requested to meet at the temple at 8 a.m. to produce the much sought-after mein for a major fund-raiser, the fall chow mein supper. The supper is set for Oct. 13, under Judy Takaguchi's supervision. Please refer to Judy's note following this article that outlines the schedule for the supper.

The Alberta Buddhist Conference this year is set for Nov. 10 in Calgary. After 33 years with a relatively established program of events, this year's will inaugurate a changed format. It'll be a one-day get-together, starting late enough on Saturday morning to allow us to drive up that day. Christina Yanko, the ministerial candidate from southern Alberta, will be the main speaker. More details will be forthcoming in the next Hikari. We look forward to a good turnout from BTSA.

Looking back, another successful bon odori provided a mid-summer celebration in July. A big thank you to all those who planned the event, helped, danced, and participated by attending. The following day's Obon service drew large crowds both at the Mountain View cemetery and the temple. Thanks to Toban 2 for the delicious sit-down supper following the service. Please see an article elsewhere for details.

Sad notes were struck around the Obon weekend when Masayuki Terakita—a long-time friend of the Dharma in southern Alberta and known throughout the country in both Japanese-Canadian and other circles—died. Shortly thereafter, we lost one of our most senior Dharma friends, Mrs. Fujiye Kariatsumari. We will miss both who helped sustain Jodo Shinshu in the area.

Couple of maintenance notes to report: during the summer, the outdoor windows, with the exception of the large wisteria-etched one at the east end of the building, were professionally-cleaned, and the kitchen exhaust and duct system was steam cleaned. By city fire regulations, the duct in a commercial cooking system as ours requires annual cleaning and the cost of cleaning has been included in the temple budget.

A final note on duct cleaning: the company who did the cleaning advised us that nothing behind the removable vents over the stove and wok should be cleaned for fear that a line could be tripped that would activate the suppression system (the big red canister to the west of the stove) which will release fire-retardant foam throughout the kitchen. The area should be left to a duct cleaning firm who will clean it annually.

Fall Chow Mein Supper October 13, 2012

Preparation for the fall Chow Mein take-out supper will take place on Oct 12, 2012 beginning at 8 A.M. We would like to have at least 15 to 20 volunteers from each Toban. Because we do not have sufficient quantities of cutting boards and knives at the temple, please bring yours from home if possible. Coffee breaks and lunch will be served on Friday and Saturday.

Assigned leaders will be coordinating volunteers to help cook, serve, and package the food on Saturday.

Cliff Thomas has volunteered to distribute the tickets to the Toban leaders.

BUDDHIST Q & A

Is there such a place called hell?

Hell is written in Kanji characters as 地獄 (earthly prison). Hell is like a prison cell created by our selfish mind: greed, anger and foolishness. In this sense, are we not presently dwelling in the realm of hell? It is Amida Buddha's light of wisdom and compassion that helps us realize that there is a hell and, at the same time, guides all of us to the Pure Land of enlightenment where there is no selfish mind. Fear not hell but our mind! (Y.I.)

BON ODORI 2012

It seems long past, but never too late to remember the festivity of the 9th Annual Bon Odori and Bazaar and thank those who participated.

Although the day had an inauspicious start with a continuous light rain, the skies cleared just at six o'clock as the event began. Following a Taiko call, Rev. Izumi opened with the chanting of San Bujo and gave greetings to all. Harry Sugimoto was an excellent MC, researching well the many dances and announcing them with enthusiasm and clarity. The wet weather earlier in the day may have contributed to fewer onlookers than last year, but there were still over five hundred attendees based on the numbers of flyers and bookmarks distributed. Maya Ichikawa, created another striking poster, used in advertising and put up around the city. Appreciation goes to the Minyo Dancers and organizer Pat Sassa for the many hours of preparation and then weekly dance practice sessions – it was good to see so many youngsters participating. The late Aya Hironaka, to whom the Bon Odori was dedicated, was greatly missed. David Tanaka and Kynan Gordon provided a wonderful taiko opening and kept the beat of the dances throughout. A special treat was a Taiko performance during the dance break, led by David and featuring NCS Taiko, sponsored by the Nikkei Cultural Society, with both adult and youth groups participating.

Special appreciation to Dharma Deli coordination/food prep volunteers Brenda Ikuta, Sheila Oishi, Maya Ichikawa and Vivian Kossuth and to all who helped with the Dharma Dogs. Charlotte Ikuta and Lisa Sakamoto coordinated the sno-cone stand with help from Riley Hanna and Kate Takeda. Thanks to all the ticket and booth sales volunteers and those involved in set up and take down of the stage and lanterns. It was a great community effort with tables from the Nikko Yuko Japanese Garden, the Japanese Language School, the Okinawa Cultural Society and the BTSA Women's Federation. For donations, we thank Al Anctil and Terry Horii. On behalf of the Bon Odori Committee, thanks to all the reliable volunteers who shared their time and energy towards the success of this year's Bon Odori.
